ABSTRACT

Bibliographic data, physical characteristics, contents, prices, and ordering instructions for Spanish instructional materials listed in this issue of the Materials Acquisitions Project are provided for each entry. Subject categories include social science, language arts, pure science, technology, the arts, literature, and history. Sections on Portuguese and non-book materials are appended. The annotation is an objective description of materials and often includes suggestions concerning appropriate grade level and utilization of materials. Many familiar works included in the compilation have been translated into Spanish. For the companion documents see ED 060 716--ED 060 725 and FL 003 397. (RL)

A WORD OR TWO ON PRICES...

The prices we list in our publication are the prices at which we purchased our materials. Since we receive significant discounts from a number of the foreign distributors and publishers with whom we deal, these prices are not necessarily the ones at which the materials are available through U. S. distributors. As a matter of fact, overhead and other factors may often change these prices considerably.

For this reason, we recommend that you contact a distributor in your geographical area for accurate information on prices as well as ordering procedures. To minimize confusion concerning this matter, we wish to re-emphasize that the prices in our publication are only estimates; we list them so that you can have an indication as to comparative costs.
